WITH UNIQUE PROGRAMS

The SNU Finance program is part of our School of Business which is accredited by the Association of Collegiate Business Schools and Programs (ACBSP). ACBSP accreditation is a seal of quality recognized by universities and businesses in more than 55 countries.

In addition to a normal core of business classes, we focus on distinctive characteristics to make your SNU finance degree a step above the rest. Our first emphasis on an ethics distinctive begins in our gateway course, Ethics and Business Principles and is pulled through the entire curriculum, completed with the capstone course, Business Policy. The emphasis on ethics is a theme for decision-making and analysis not just in your courses at SNU but also as you enter the workforce.

Our second distinctive is in service. While studying at SNU, you will be encouraged to hone in on your serving skills through a variety of opportunities. Perhaps you will join Angel Tree, volunteering year round as you encourage children and families of incarcerated parents with support, mentoring, and educational help.

WITH UNIQUE OPPORTUNITIES

At SNU, we know your education needs to extend beyond the classroom. That's why we work hard to develop extracurricular programs to further your education. Learn through a unique internship catered to your degree at a bank or brokerage firm.

Consider spending a summer and one semester with Morningstar Internships, an international combined study abroad/internship program working with the poor in developing countries to start their own businesses. Study abroad through International Business. This program will prepare you to work for multinational corporations as well as with international non-government organizations all over the world!

Other opportunities within the School of Business include Enactus, an organization dedicated to serving both local and international economic efforts. Chat with the Executive is an opportunity for you to hear from and ask questions of SNU alumni who are now leaders in their fields. Ethics Club is another organization within the School of Business, providing you an opportunity to hear from business leaders in the community and ask questions in a small setting. We have also had teams from SNU compete in the Oklahoma Ethics Challenge over the years.

WITH HIGHLY-QUALIFIED PROFESSORS

At SNU, our business professors have more than just teaching experience. Each an expert in his or her own field, with years of "real-world" experience and always continuing his or her education. Not to mention a passion to see you succeed in your business career. We challenge you to find a better qualified faculty.

Gruenwald's working accomplishments actually started while he was still a student at SNU where he began two technology companies that he later sold sometime after graduation. He is one of the leading voices in the church as it relates to innovation and the use of technology. He frequently writes and speaks on this topic and has been featured in a number of publications. Washington Post. CNN. CBS. NPR. In 2011, he was listed by Fast Company as one of the 100 Most Creative People in Business.

"SNU was really instrumental in helping to shape and solidify my faith," says Gruenwald. "While at the same time providing an environment that encouraged passions that I had inside of me. I consider the investment of the faculty and administration key in the early success that I had as an entrepreneur. Ultimately, the faith foundation that was build at SNU proved to be key in the decision to transition from a full-time business role into vocational ministry."

If a dream is a blueprint of a goal not yet achieved, at SNU we partner with you to focus your efforts to attain whatever it is you hope to accomplish. Thus, we say DREAM WITH CONFIDENCE.
